LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION
45 CFR Part 1620
Priorities in Allocation of Resources
AGENCY: Legal Services Corporation.
ACTION: Proposed rule; amendment.

SUMMARY: On January 4, 1985, the Legal Services Corporation republished Part 1620 of its regulations for public comment. Based upon comments received and recommendations of the Board's Operations and Regulations Committee, the Board of Directors on May 24, 1985, adopted proposed amendments to Part 1620 which pertains to priorities in the allocation of resources. The proposed amendments to the regulation are being published for further comment. Sixteen amendments are proposed. Of these amendments eight make major, substantive changes. One of these major amendments is a complete revision of the access provision. It clarifies that recipients, while attempting to ensure that all eligible clients have reasonably equal access to legal services, may consider special legal requirements and that they need not establish quota systems or follow arbitrary standards in determining how to allocate their resources. The seven other major amendments provide that, in setting priorities, the governing bodies of recipients should contact eligible clients; that the governing bodies should consider the relative importance of the particular legal problems of the individual clients of the recipient; that the governing bodies should consider whether legal efforts will result in efficient and economic delivery of legal services; that the requirement of an initial written report is eliminated; that priorities shall be set periodically; that annual reports summarizing the review of priorities shall be made available to the public; and that recipients should include in their annual report a copy of the case acceptance policies and proceedings established under § 1620.4. The other eight amendments are of a technical nature.

DATE: Comments must be received on or before August 1, 1985.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be submitted to Office of General Counsel, Legal Services Corporation, 733 15th Street NW., Room 601, Washington, D.C. 20005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On January 4, 1985, the Legal Services Corporation republished Part 1620 of its regulations for public comment (50 FR 512). Comments were received and considered. On May 24, 1985, the Corporation's Board of Directors, acting upon recommendations of its Operations and Regulations Committee, adopted proposed amendments to that Part.

Because substantive changes were made, the proposed amendments to the regulation are being published for comment.

The specific proposed amendments are discussed on a section-by-section basis below.

Section 1620.1 Purpose. The letter "s" has been added to the word "view" in recognition that eligible clients, staff, the private bar and other interested persons may not have identical opinions about the policies and plans of a recipient. Recipients should consider the opinions of all of these groups. The last half of the section, beginning with the words "it is further" has been deleted. The Board viewed this language as simply a confusing and unnecessary attempt to summarize the rest of the regulation.

Section 1620.2 Procedure. The first sentence of § 1620.2(a)(1) has been split in half by inserting a period (.) after the word "population", removing the words ", as well as" and inserting in their place the words "The appraisal shall also include". The words "to the extent feasible should include outreach to eligible clients which may include the use of such techniques as questionnaires and surveys." have been inserted after the words "interested persons". This change reflects the conviction of the Board that communicating with the client community is of vital importance in aiding recipients to establish priorities. To the extent feasible and cost-effective, programs should include outreach to eligible clients who might not otherwise be contacted, such as clients in nursing homes or other institutions, or who reside in locations that are isolated, difficult to reach or otherwise inaccessible. Programs may use a variety of techniques to conduct feasible outreach including, where practical, questionnaires and surveys.

In § 1620.2(a)(2), the words "in the development of the report required by § 1620.4(b)", have been removed. This change recognizes that former § 1620.4(b) has been deleted.

In subparagraph § 1620.2(b)(6) the word "individual" has been inserted in front of the word "clients" to encourage recipients to look at their clients not simply as a class subject to the uniform application of standard remedies but as people with diverse legal problems each of which is worthy of careful and particular attention.

The word "and" at the end of subparagraph (b)(7) of § 1620.2 has been removed and the word "; and" has been added to the end of subparagraph (b)(8) of § 1620.2 to accommodate the addition of a new subparagraph (b)(9).

Finally, a new subparagraph 1620.2(b)(9) has been added which is similar in language to Section 1007(a)(3) of the Legal Services Corporation Act. The new subparagraph would require recipients, in establishing their priorities, to consider whether "legal efforts will result in efficient and economic delivery of legal services." Programs should adopt priorities that enhance the efficient and economic delivery of legal services.

Section 1620.3 Access. This section has been substantially revised to emphasize that recipients may take a flexible approach in dealing with the issue of client access to legal services. It must, however be read in the context of the entire regulation. Programs may set priorities that favor certain types of services or cases, but they must make a reasonable effort to provide similar types of services to all clients who are in essentially similar legal and factual circumstances. In the first sentence the words "and shall make a reasonable effort to" have replaced the words "so as to substantially". This change recognizes that a recipient's goal is the economic and effective delivery of legal services, not the elimination of every possible disparity in client access. In promoting that goal, recipients may sometimes reasonably choose an option that does not produce substantially equal access. The words "similar types" have replaced the words "the same type" because legal needs may differ from place to place within a recipient's service area. In some cases a recipient may be providing more effective service to all of its clients if it offers different types of services in different areas. The words "and level of representation to the maximum extent economically practical" have been removed because they were vague and misleading. When an attorney undertakes to represent a client, he or she gives that client the representation that best meets the client's needs.

At the beginning of the second sentence a new phrase, "If the governing body of the recipient so desires", has been added to emphasize that recipients have the option to be flexible. The word "the" has been added and the capital "T" in the word "Types" changed to a lower case "t" to conform to accepted standards of English usage and punctuation. The words "so as to take into account" replace the words "as required to meet", and the words "a higher incidence of a particular kind of legal problem, the considerably higher costs of providing services, or," replace the words "and level of representation may vary based on". This change as well reflects the Board's concern for recipient flexibility and its concern that recipients focus on the actual legal needs of clients and the most effective and economic way of delivering services to them. Some areas may have unusual legal needs that do not exist elsewhere. Accordingly, the governing body may provide different types of services to take into account different priorities in different parts of the recipient's service area (e.g. rural issues or special legal problems of particular client groups such as black lung cases among miners); a higher incidence of a particular kind of legal problem (e.g., in more urban areas or in institutional settings); the considerably higher costs of providing services (e.g., in remote or isolated areas); or differences in individual client financial resources. Under the regulation, recipients will be free to weigh the type and incidence of legal problems in their service areas against the relative costs of providing particular services in different geographical areas. As in § 1620.2(b)(6), the word "individual" is inserted before the word "client" to emphasize that, in establishing priorities, recipients should focus on people and not classes.

The last two sentences of § 1620.3 are removed and replaced with a new sentence: "Consistent with the methods of delivery that are most effective and economical and the factors of § 1620.2(b), allocation of resources shall be reasonably proportional to the distribution of eligible clients within the recipient's service area, but this part shall not be interpreted to require any rigid standard for dollar expenditures or number of clients served." This new sentence clarifies the Board's decision that recipients be held to a reasonableness standard in resolving the issue of client access. Recipients do not have to set up quotas or use other arbitrary devices in determining how to apply their resources. The priorities regulation should not be read to require offices in every county, equal staff, or any rigid standard for dollar expenditures or number of clients served. It is the availability of services, not the physical location of resources, which is pivotal.

Section 1620.4 Implementation. Paragraph (b) of § 1620.4 is removed because the date June 30, 1984 has already passed and because, in the light of the requirement in § 1620.5 that there be an annual written report, the Board determined that it was unnecessary to require an initial written report. Because paragraph (b) has been eliminated and only one paragraph remains in the section, the characters "(a)" are removed from the beginning of § 1620.4.

Section 1620.5 Annual Review. The words "be set periodically and shall"

are inserted before the words "be reviewed" to indicate that, although recipients are not required to set priorities each year, they are required to do so periodically. The words "After the initial report described in § 1620.4(b)" are removed because an initial report is no longer required. The lower case "e" in the word "each" is changed to a capital "E" since "Each" now constitutes the first word of the second sentence. The words "and make available to the public" are inserted before the words "an annual report" to encourage accountability to the public. The word "and" before the word "mechanisms" is deleted as unnecessary. The words "policies and procedures established under § 1620.4 of these regulations as a result of the priority review and assessment" are substituted for the words "schedule adopted as a result of the priority review and assessment of the changes made in current operations of the recipient as a result of the priority review". The Board deleted the term "case acceptance schedule" because it was unclear. It determined that the Corporation's need to have information about the procedures recipients use in accepting cases could be met by requiring recipients to include in their annual reports copies of the case acceptance policies and procedures established under § 1620.4 of the regulation.
